

Reinventing the Hollywood Theatre

Bringing renewed cultural and economic vitality to West Broadway

Richard Newirth
Managing Director – Cultural Services
City of Vancouver

Vancouver, BC V5Y 1V4

April 25, 2016

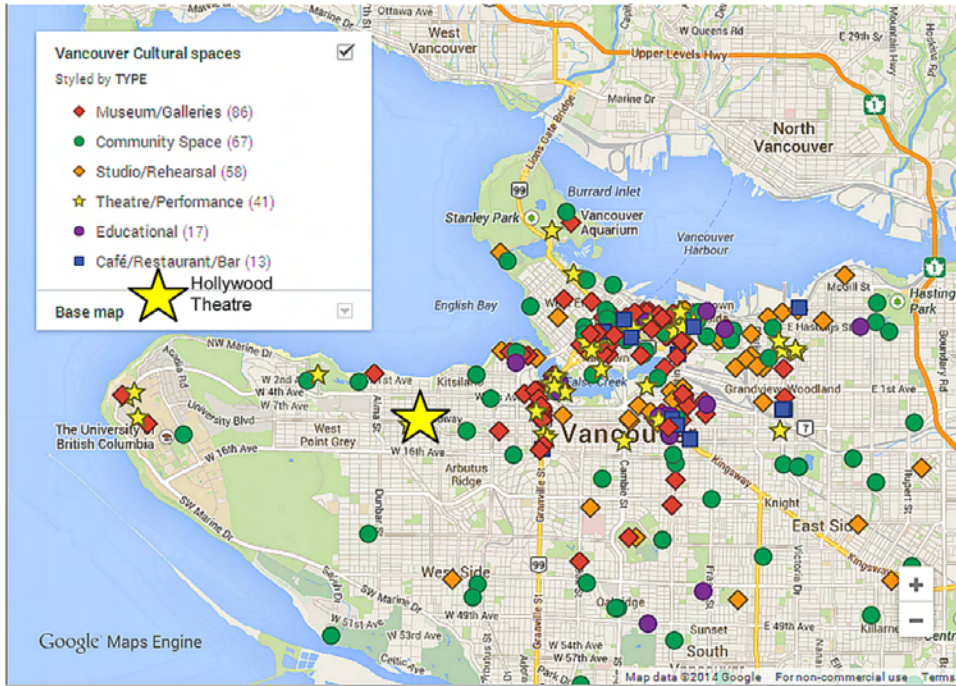

Dear Mr. Newirth,

The Hollywood Theatre has been a vibrant focus of entertainment and culture on West Broadway for 75 years. Since its doors opened in the midst of the Great Depression, Vancouverites have flocked to the Hollywood to be entertained and local business has benefited.

Unfortunately, like the Ridge and Varsity Theatres before it, and the Cellar Jazz Club more recently, the Hollywood's demise has dramatically eroded the cultural vitality of Vancouver's west side, and Broadway as the heart of it.

The City recently updated its register of cultural spaces through an interactive, on-line mapping project and, unfortunately, the following map confirms what locals already know; that there's a major shortage of cultural capacity west of Granville.

Fortunately, the Save the Hollywood Theatre Coalition has developed a comprehensive plan (details at <http://savethehollywoodtheatre.com>) to put the Hollywood back on the map! The Coalition's vision is to reinvent the Hollywood as a more versatile public arts and culture venue, featuring live performing arts as well as cinema programming.

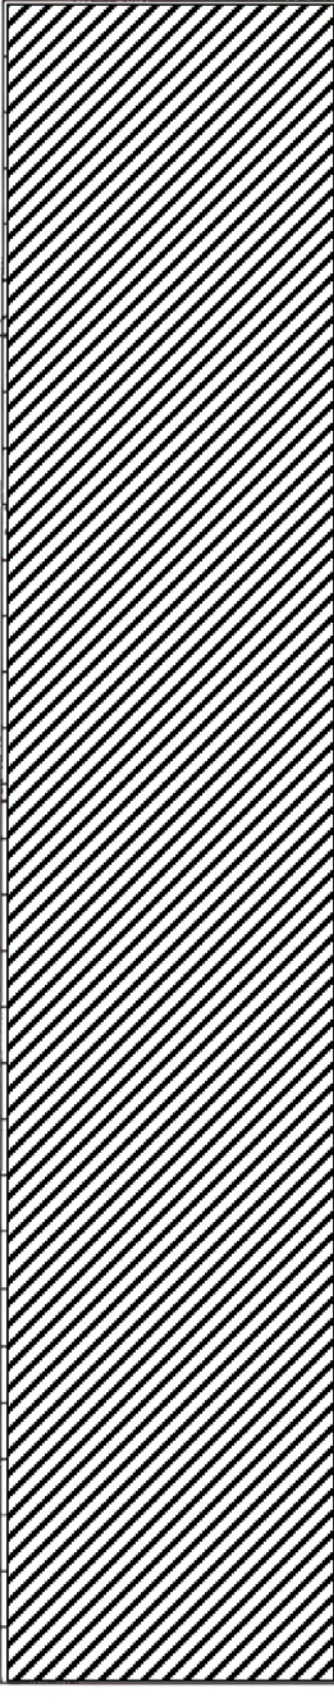

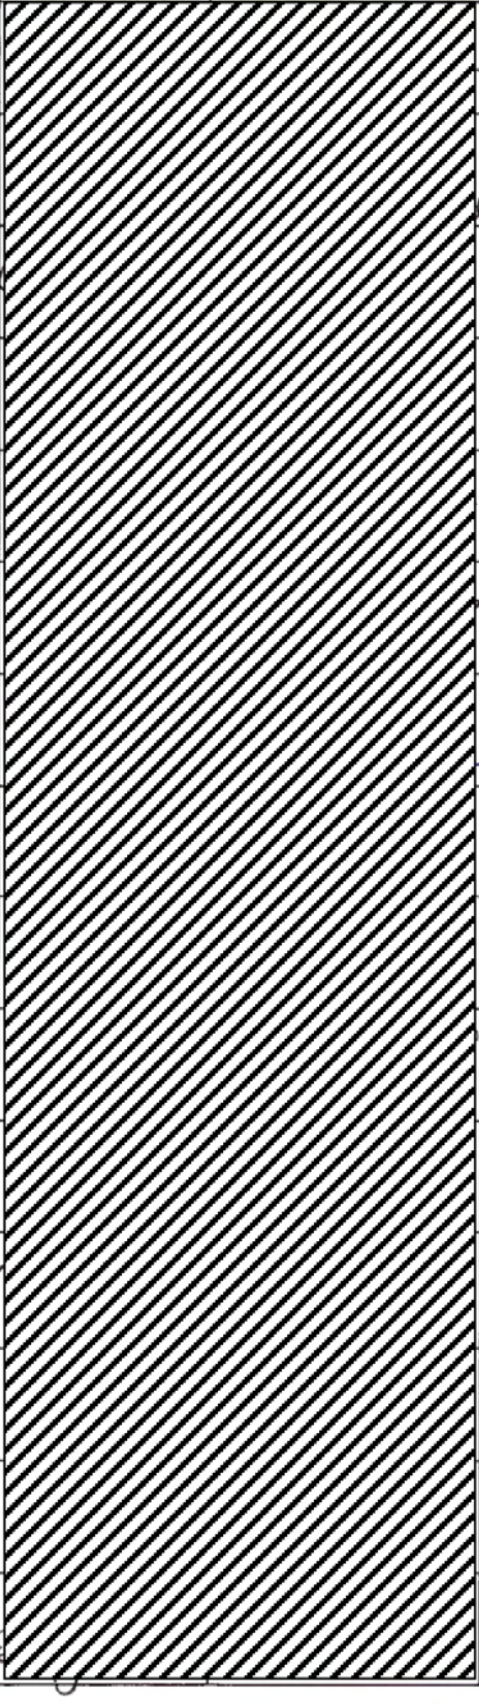

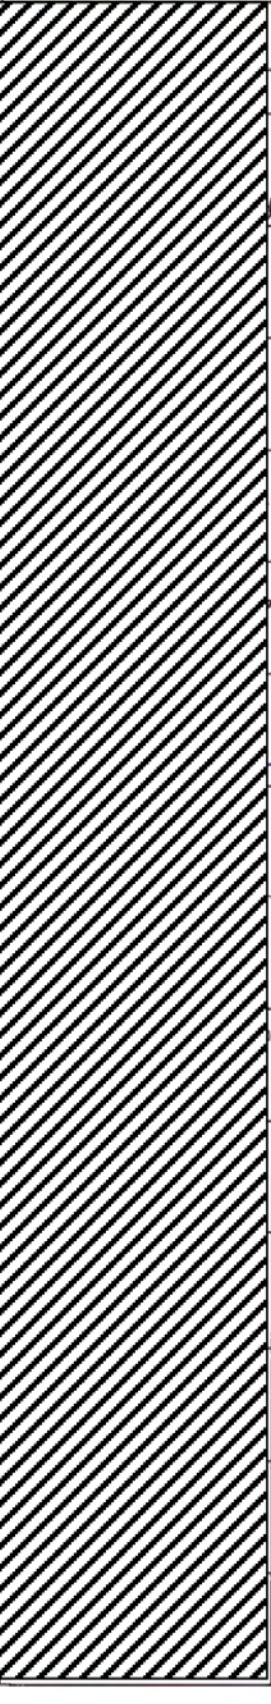

A better than ever Hollywood Theatre would bring renewed cultural and economic vitality to the city's west side by establishing a much needed arts and culture focus on West Broadway.

As members of the West Broadway business community, we strongly support the Coalition's plan and encourage the City of Vancouver to work with the theatre's owner, the Coalition and the local BIA to make it a reality.

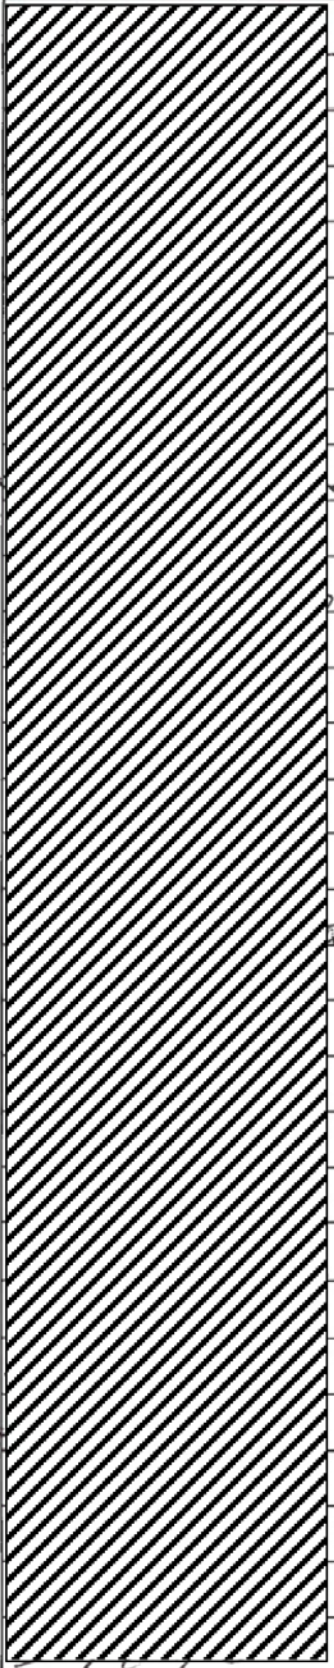

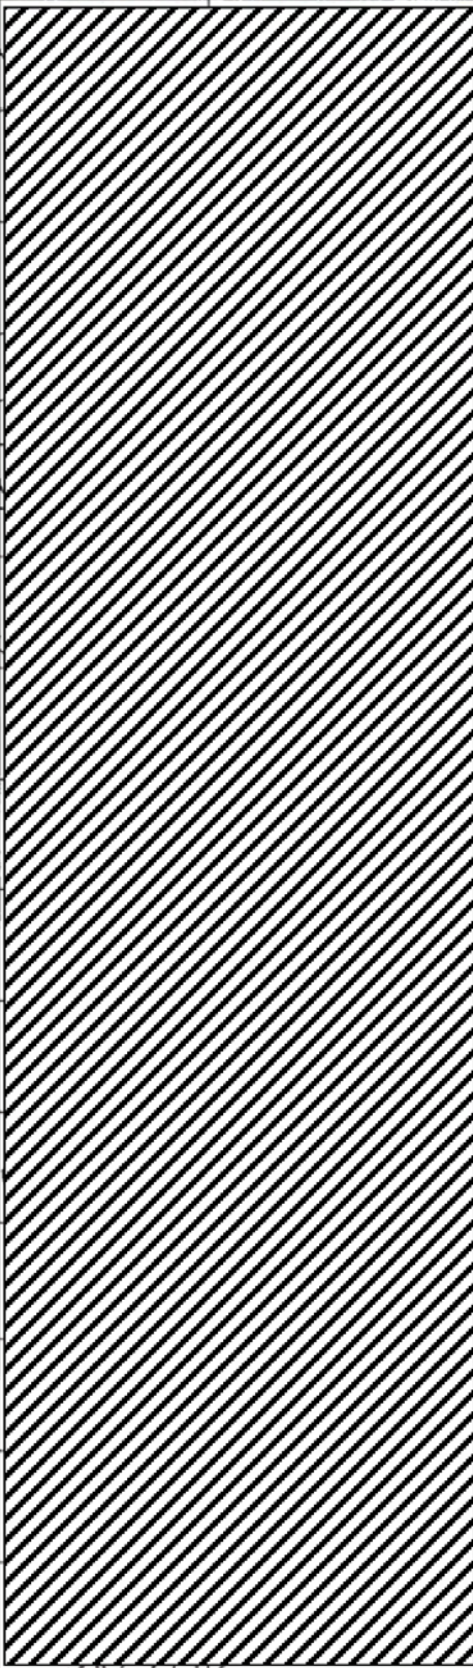

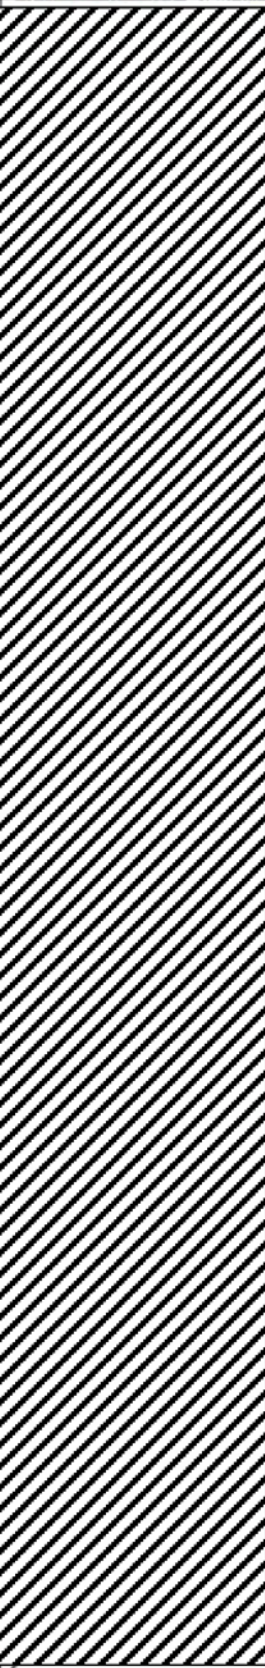

Sincerely,
